

'High Risk Offenders'

The 'High Risk Offenders' scheme is designed to identify drivers who may not be fit to drive. It is determined by a medical conducted by a DVLA appointed doctor. There will be a on any letters we send you and on the register if you are HRO.

- you were convicted of 2 drink (or drug) - driving offences within 10 years
- you were driving with an alcohol reading of at least -
87.5 microgrammes of alcohol per 100 millilitres of breath, or 200 milligrammes of alcohol per 100 millilitres of blood, or 267.5 milligrammes of alcohol per 100 millilitres of urine
- you refused to give the police a sample of breath, blood or urine to test for alcohol
- you refused to allow a sample of your blood to be tested for alcohol (e.g. if it was taken when you were unconscious)

This means that your licence will not automatically be returned to you. You have to assure DVLA that your drinking is not a problem before they will allow the reinstatement of your licence. This is not something to leave until the last moment, you need to begin considering your drinking behaviour as soon as possible, it could mean substantial changes in your lifestyle and these do not happen overnight. As we see it you have two options -

Option 1

Do nothing and await the DVLA to advise you of their approved doctor, make an appointment, go and see them, pay the fee and hope you are OK. This could be just a week or so before you are due to regain your licence -

If your blood test readings [CDT] are 'raised' the doctor may say "come back in 6 or 12 months" - if the tests are normal then you should regain your licence on time!

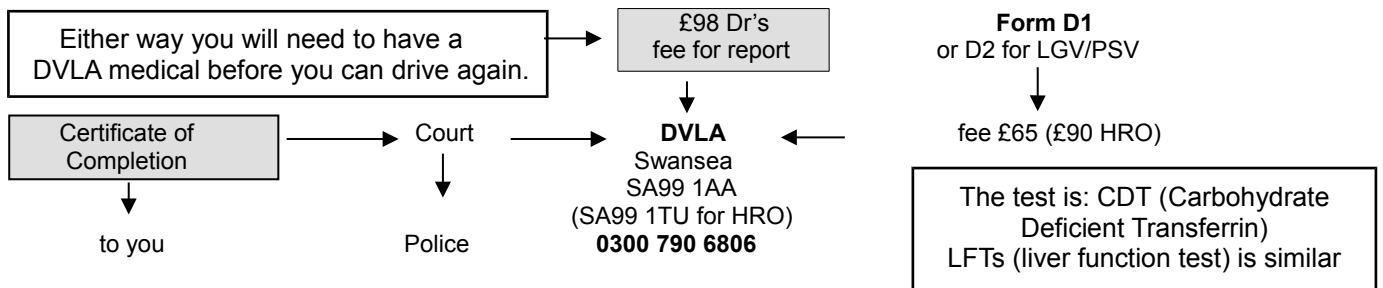

Option 2

or, you could – get a blood test from your GP (or private hospital) [LFTs] now! Or from -

– If your readings are 'raised' this will be a strong indicator that you need to reduce/abstain from alcohol until they reduce to a level acceptable to DVLA. This may take weeks or months – NOT DAYS.

If they are normal now then you could choose to keep drinking at your current level until you see the DVLA Dr.
